<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • She's very intentive and cares about her students a lot. She wants them to succeed and does whatever she can to help them. • Mrs. Hocutt was very efficient in the way she answered her emails, and I could expect a helpful response within two hours. She graciously extended my test's availability after a proctoring mistake on my part; this showed me that she really does care about her students' success in this course. • she helped greatly • She was really great at updating students whenever she got more information about anything and was very quick, and respectful, when replying to me with any questions I had. Her lecture notes were extremely helpful and I very rarely even looked at the provided textbook as her notes included everything I needed to know in order to understand and complete the course work. Even though I never met her in person or spent much time as her student, I can tell she cares a great deal for her students and making sure they succeed not only in her classes, but in life. I would take her classes a million times again if I could. • The instructor was great with communicating emails back and forth. I wish I had had her class in person! • Ms. Hocutt was the best math professor I've ever had. I was nervous about this class (as I do not particularly care for math) but Ms. Hocutt's teaching style was very easy for me to understand. I have learned a great deal during these three weeks of class. This course exceeded my expectations. • This teacher is amazing and will do anything to help her students with technological issues.

---------------	---------------

- N/A
- This is my second time taking a Math 110 course with a different instructor, and I have found myself actually enjoying this class, which is something I never thought I would say about a math course.
- This has been my favorite course thus far, to be fair I have always loved math though so I might be biased. I enjoyed the homework problems and the extra practice problems, and even the tests. What really stood out to me and honestly made this course even better is that the material was almost all related to real life experiences we need to be able to understand. I learned so much more than I expected to and know understand loans, mortgages, stocks, etc. that I was always scared to try to figure out beforehand. Professor Hocutt not only taught us how to mathematically compare numbers but also provided little comments about why one loan might be better than another and she also made it very easy to understand (for me at least). The course is inherently fast paced since we only have a couple weeks but I, personally, never felt that I was being rushed from one topic to another. The tests were very fair while also not being too easy and for the final we got to use a formula sheet so we didn't have to memorize a ton of different formulas which was very helpful. I don't have a single complaint about this course or the professor. I almost wished I hadn't taken it during the interim, not because of the pace, but so that it wouldn't be over so soon. If I could take it again I totally would!
- This course was so short and I learned nothing. It was so fast paced and if I would have been able to use the lecture notes on the exam I would have passed this class but it's hard for me to teach myself when I don't have a teacher due to my ADD, so this course was definitely challenging and I prepared the whole week leading up to the exam and still did not pass. If I had known this course would've been so short I would have chose a classroom setting later. In addition, the Proctor I was chosen did not speak clear English and I could not understand half the things he was instructing me to do and it took 35 minutes before I could start my exam, so by the time that was over I was already flustered and upset. I also had to pay $50 in total to take the midterm and final for people who I could not understand instruct me on what to do. My mother is not happy with the way the class went. She paid a lot of good money for a person to teach me not to teach myself.
- This is a great course for anyone trying to fit in a prerequisite math course in a short time.
- Although it is straightforward with how Smarter proctoring, the system is a bit convoluted with scheduling, and if you miss the midterm just because your laptop decides to mess up, you can't reschedule it for later in the day or reschedule at all unless if you contact the teacher to extend the due date of your test. During this issue Jasmine Hocutt was great and helped in every way to make it work.

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • She is very kind and approachable. • Mrs. Hocutt is already one of my favorite professors at the University of Alabama! As an incoming freshman, she has made the college transition very welcoming and exciting! I hope to come across more professors as kind and as helpful as she is!! • Needs a zoom lecture time • No. • Professor Hocutt has proven herself to be a very effective professor. She was always sure to communicate to us the necessary steps we needed to take in order to be successful within the class. Her online lectures were incredibly thorough and she went out of her way to diagram steps in order to solve the most difficult problems. She clearly outlines how to do well in the class and even went out of her way to reach out to me personally to ensure I was doing my best and provided incredibly helpful tips in order to do well in a warm and respectful manner. She is an incredibly caring professor that wants all of her students to grasp the material and to excel in the course. I would definitely take her again in another course if given the opportunity to do so. • Jasmine took her time to describe why something was done a certain way. I really appreciated the background context and real-world applications. She was also very accessible over email. • Really good instructor, responded questions quickly when asked. • Professor Hocutt is an excellent teacher. I've taken two courses taught by her and have learned a great deal from both. She responds quickly to emails, which is greatly appreciated.

- stupid hard
- No.
- The course was challenging which is great as challenges make us better students.
- It was a little fast paced at times.
- My only complaint about the course is the use of Examity for exams. Having to pay for a test every week can be difficult for students. Examity also tended to crash while I was testing and the proctors were not very helpful.
